

Privacy Statement

Perspective Group respects your right to privacy and your right to limit information exchanges to only those you initiate, if you so desire. We do acquire certain personal information from private individuals in the course of business, but we do not voluntarily share this personal information with third parties. We do use this information to better serve you and facilitate your use of our web site.

Perspective Group may acquire a private individual's personal information from registration forms, product order information, or e-mail messages to us. Only those Perspective Group employees who require this information to do their jobs will have access to it. The Perspective Group web server also records visitor IP addresses and domain names for reporting and site usage analysis. This information is reported internally and then purged when required.

Perspective Group will not voluntarily disclose a private individual's personal information to any third parties for marketing or promotional purposes, or for any other purpose unless a court orders us to. If, despite our security precautions, personal information about a private individual is inadvertently disclosed, we will do everything reasonable to limit and remedy the disclosure. However, Perspective Group accepts no liability for any unintentional disclosure.

If you supply Perspective Group with your e-mail address, postal address or phone number through our site you may receive promotional or informational communications from Perspective Group. If you prefer not to receive these communications or if you have any questions about how we use the information you provide, please send an e-mail message to us at info@perspectivegroup.com.
